Arlington Connection

Spring Edition, April 2004

A Quarterly Publication from your Town of Arlington

From the Mayor

Russell Wiseman, Mayor

Arlington is a wonderful place to live and visit. Beautiful scenery, excellent schools, recreational opportunities, and clean, healthy, safe living conditions are among the many blessings that we enjoy. Our most valuable assets are our citizens. They are friendly, helpful, and consistently demonstrate a positive "can-do" approach to life.

As we move forward, I would like to review some changes that have taken place in the six months our new administration has been on board.

- Three residential zoning classes have been redefined for new developments, and lot square footage requirements have increased by approximately 30 percent across the board.
- A Design Review Committee is now in place to oversee commercial and residential developments and ensure they are not only visually appealing, but will retain their appeal over time.
- Zoning laws have been amended to better inform surrounding property owners of potential rezoning when it is in close proximity to their property.
- We are regulating leagues for youth sports with adult sports to come in the future.
- We recently completed a town census to allow the town to share in state money and increase services to the citizens.

A successful community is about providing services at a reasonable cost to citizens. Our Board of Mayor and Aldermen are constantly evaluating the addition of services, such as parks and other recreational opportunities, as our budget permits.

The Board of Aldermen and staff work well together in guiding the town toward a well-planned future striving to maintain and improve the quality of life that we now enjoy. We are here to serve you. Please do not hesitate to contact either the staff or me with any concerns that you may have. Your comments are valued and will be carefully considered.

As an Arlington resident, we encourage your participation and involvement with our town's government and look forward to what we can do together to make Arlington an even better place to live.

You Spoke and We Listened; Town Leadership Acts on Key Findings from Citizens' Survey

As a first step toward ensuring residents have a voice in the town of Arlington, the new Board of Mayor and Aldermen commissioned a citizens' survey in February of this year that was mailed to all residents. While a typical response rate for a survey is less than 10 percent, the response rate to our town survey was 30 percent, which tells us that residents like you want to be involved and have input in the future of our community.

It was no surprise that 98 percent of survey participants said they feel that Arlington is a good place to live. It's the mission of the Board to develop strategies to ensure that residents continue to have this level of confidence in our town as we grow. Below you'll find a summary of the key findings from the survey.

Key Findings

- 97 percent are satisfied with town safety.
- 78 percent are satisfied with the cleanliness of the community.
- 77 percent believe that the town is responsive to citizens' needs.
- Two-thirds believe tax dollars are used wisely.
- 75 to 80 percent are satisfied with the quality of the town streets, leaf collection program, storm water management, right-of-way maintenance, and major/ neighborhood street lighting.
- 35 percent said that the appearance of local businesses needs improvement.
- Over 50 percent are willing to incur tax increases if the following services were expanded or improved: fire protection, police protection, or parks and recreation.
- Over 40 percent are open to tax increases for the creation of a community activity center, or improvements to street/road maintenance and storm water drainage systems.

- 42 percent rated the town's park and recreation facilities as fair or poor which explains why over 50 percent are willing to have taxes raised to pay for park improvements.
- The recreational services that participants are most interested in are walking trails and neighborhood parks.
- 33 percent rated local sidewalks as fair or poor.
- 18 percent would like to see improvements to youth programs.
- 57 percent would like to see additional retail development, and 31 percent would like to see professional office development.
- Residents currently receive town information through the newsletter and said frequent communication from the town is important.

Next Steps/Strategies for Improvement

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen will meet soon to plan next steps as a result of these survey findings. In the meantime, a number of projects that support these results are already underway.

- An Arlington Environmental Court is being developed to help enforce regulations related to the upkeep and visual appeal of our neighborhoods and commercial developments.
- Communications improvements including this newsletter, the town of Arlington Web site, the Communications Committee, etc. See the article titled "New Communication Tools."
- The Parks & Recreation department has spent time and money (approximately $10,000) getting the ball fields ready for spring.
- Seating for the College Hill Park amphitheater is close to completion.
- A Design Review Committee has been formed to oversee commercial and residential developments to ensure that they retain their appeal over time.

Arlington in April

Since 1990, the town of Arlington has celebrated its community spirit and history with the annual Arlington in April festivities. This year's event is scheduled on April 24 from 10:00 am to 4:00 pm in the historic downtown area. Here's just some of what's planned: live music, games, a petting zoo, blacksmith demonstrations, arts and crafts, and a car show sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. The APTA will present tours of historic sites as well as the Holy Innocents Cemetery with a Meditation Garden sponsored by the Garden Club. Established in 1881, this cemetery is the resting place of many of our town's founders. And you won't want to miss the Lemonade Garden or the plant sale.

Brochures are available at the S. Y. Wilson store and the Senior Citizens' Center in Depot Square. You and your family won't want to miss the fun.

Spotlight on Wright Medical

Each quarter, the Arlington Connection will feature an article spotlighting an Arlington-based business that maintains a positive presence in our community.

At the bottom of the hill, just around the bend on Airline Road, sits a structure that seems a little out of place for the quiet, old-town charm of Arlington. The structure is the multi-story, gleaming world headquarters of Wright Medical Technology – a multi-million dollar global orthopedic manufacturer. The entire Wright Medical campus includes five buildings in Arlington including a 16,000 square foot annex to the administration building that opened in January of this year. Over the course of the next year, the company will be expanding even further by adding another multi-story building adjacent to its manufacturing facilities.

Wright's Arlington campus is home to over 570 employees ranging in expertise from engineering and skilled machining to marketing and customer service. Products designed and manufactured at Wright include implants for hips, knees, fingers, toes, elbows and shoulders. The company is also making great strides in an area called "biologics." Products in this category include organic compounds and human tissue-based materials that aid in the healing of bone and other tissue. In the biologics arena, Wright is considered a pioneering company and is closely watched by surgeons and investors alike for new developments in its cutting-edge technology. The company also maintains a leadership role in small joint orthopedics, supplying approximately 80% of the finger and toe implants used throughout the world.

But the company's earlier days were not so "high-tech." In fact, Wright's entire orthopedic empire was built on a small piece of rubber – a rubber heel, to be precise. In 1950, the company's founder, Frank Wright, established Wright Manufacturing Company in downtown Memphis to produce and sell his invention, a rubber walking heel for leg casts. Over the next few decades, this small piece of ingenuity grew into an entire line of orthopedic products. The company moved its operations to Arlington in 1975. Although the Wright family is no longer a part of the company's ownership, the organization has retained the name of its founder to reflect a commitment to his pioneering spirit.

Since becoming a part of the Arlington community, Wright has taken its corporate citizenship to heart. The company is a member of the Chamber of Commerce and a strong supporter of local schools, athletics and community events. Wright also supports the community by drawing on local talent for many of its positions. Our town's location, charm and citizens have always been attractive assets to Wright and are just a few of the many reasons that Wright Medical Technology is proud to call Arlington "home."

New Communication Tools to Keep You Connected

Your Board of Mayor and Aldermen are committed to open, straight-talking communication with residents. The goal is to help keep you better connected and to allow you the opportunity to provide input. After all, it's your town. In support of this goal, the Communications Committee has adopted a three-tiered interactive communications strategy – a combination of this enhanced printed newsletter, an all-new official town Web site, and e-mail updates. You can select the communication channel or channels that work best for you.

Printed Newsletter – Beginning with this edition of Arlington Connection, Arlington residents will receive a quarterly newsletter mailed to their home. Your new leadership is committed to sharing details on every project of significance to our community. So, the content in our town newsletter will be more in-depth and relevant than you may have seen in the past. It will include a feature article from one of our Aldermen or the Mayor on important topics facing our community that quarter. Some of the other feature columns will include a spotlight on a local business, key project updates, the status of development projects, and a quarterly calendar of events and meetings, just to name a few. To allow you the opportunity to submit story ideas and newsletter comments, a new e-mail address has been established: connection@townofarlington.org.

New Town of Arlington Web Site – Our new town Web site is now live at www.townofarlington.org. The Web is a perfect tool for timely updates on town news. The Web site will provide all of the information found in the printed newsletter, but oftentimes more quickly. If you have Web content suggestions or photos of community events that you would like to be considered for the site, please notify the Web site administrator at webmaster@townofarlington.org.

Arlington E-Mail Updates – If you'd like to have the newsletter automatically e-mailed to you each quarter, beginning with the next edition this summer, visit the new Web site to sign up for this service.

New Sewage Treatment Project Prepares Town for Future Development

Discussions about sewer water and where it goes when we flush our toilets is a very interesting topic of conversation – if you are an engineer, that is. Most of us never give a second thought to what happens to our waste water and the process that goes into treating it and safely disposing of it. Only when and if that process stops working, do we have reason to pay any attention to it at all.

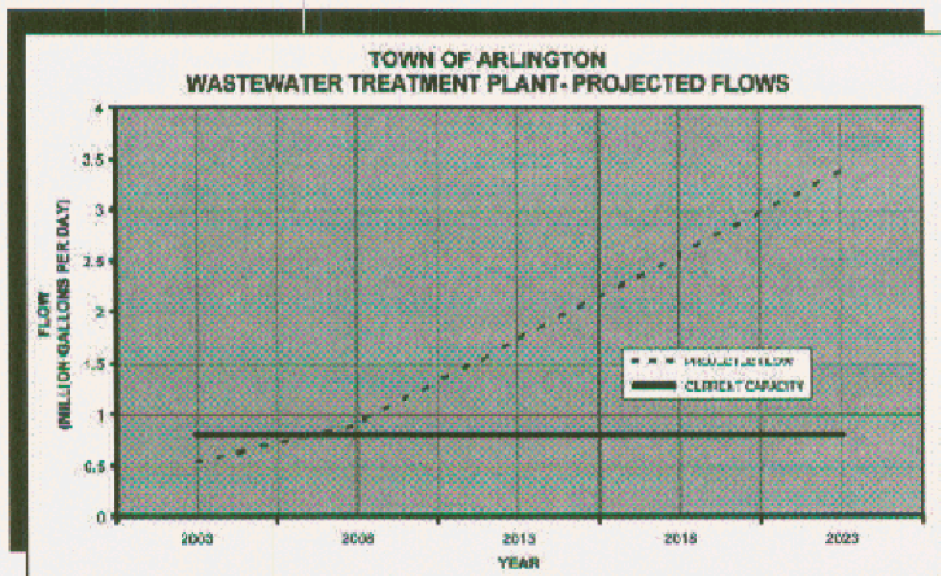

Not having to think or worry about these issues is definitely a benefit for our citizens and is the goal of our Public Works Department. That means that everything is working as it should. Be assured though, there's a very extensive, expensive and lengthy process that goes on behind the scenes to make sure that our bathtubs drain properly. As a growing community, our current "lagoon system" is no longer capable of keeping up with demand and ensuring that the process of treating waste water is trouble free. That is why our town is currently working on plans to build a sewer treatment plant that will be able to serve our needs well into the future. This new plant will be built at the intersection of I-385 and Hwy. 70 (north of the RR tracks).

Our sewer is currently treated in a lagoon on Collierville-Arlington Road, north of Highway 70. A lagoon is an obsolete way of treating a municipality's sewage. Our current lagoon treats this waste and then discharges the end product into the Loosahatchie River. The State of Tennessee has only permitted us to treat one million gallons per day (GPD) with the lagoon. We are currently running at 60-percent capacity and the results from our recent census demonstrate the possible need to treat one million GPD or more by 2008 and as much as 2.5 million GPD by 2018. The new mechanical treatment facility will be able to carry 2.5 million GPD with the capacity to grow to five million GPD. Without a mechanical sewer treatment plant, we could potentially be in violation of state guidelines, resulting in costly fines and possibly even a halt in new development entirely. Our town's growth is dependent upon this project.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen, under the guidance of industry consultants, have closely examined various sources of financing to fund the construction. Revenue bonds will be used to finance the project. Increases in subdivision lot fees and sewer tap fees will also assist in this funding.

Lakeland and Oakland are in similar situations and are in the process of building their own treatment plants as well. Building a treatment plant is no small task, but be assured that your town leadership is working hard to make sure that our town's future needs are met. This vital improvement to our infrastructure will ensure our ability as a community to continue to prosper as our needs evolve well into the 21st century.

Kroger Development

High School

TIGERS

Phase one of the much anticipated Arlington High School is scheduled to open in August of this year at the intersection of Airline Road and Milton Wilson. The addition to our community is just one more reason why our town of Arlington is such a great place to live.

Projected enrollment for the 2004 school year is approximately 385 students in grade nine. Enrollment for grades 10 through 12 will occur one grade level at a time by 2008. When completed, the two-story school building will have the capacity for 2,000 students with over 100 teaching stations which will include: 72 classrooms, three computer labs, seven science labs, a 650-seat auditorium, and specialized career/technical spaces. It will also feature fine arts spaces which will include: choral music, instrumental music, drama, and TV production. Eleven classrooms will be provided for students with special needs. A school-wide computer data network is planned and every instructional space will have Internet access. Athletic facilities will include a football stadium with an eight-lane track; baseball, softball and soccer fields; and a varsity gymnasium.

The library, auditorium and administrative offices will be located in the center of the building to provide easy access for students and parents. The library will have an Internet research station and utilize a computer-based check-out/check-in system. Passenger car and bus traffic will be separated on the campus for safety.

Construction will be completed on a two-story wing, the career technical space and the cafeteria by the start of school this fall. The entire construction project is estimated for completion in August of 2005. Students living between I-40, U.S. 64 and the Fayette County line will attend the new school.

The principal, Dr. Claude L. 'Sonny' Eilert, has served Shelby County Schools in numerous capacities. He began his teaching career as an adult education instructor, later taught at Mt. Pisgah and Collierville Middle School, and was Millington Central High's vice principal. His wife of 27 years, Penny Eilert, is the county school's assistant superintendent for instruction.

Arlington History

Arlington has been called Shelby County's best-kept secret and rightly so as it has remained a small quiet rural Town for two centuries. Despite its recent growth, the tranquility prevails in our neighborhoods while star-filled skies outshine street lamps.

Settlers came in the area in the 1830's and many of their descendants still live in Town. Originally known as Haysville, the Town was named after the original landowner, Samuel Jackson Hays, a descendant of President Andrew Jackson. The area began to grow with the development of the Memphis and Ohio railroad and the creation of Withe Depot within its boundaries. By 1856, about two hundred people called Haysville home, but growth ceased with the onset of the Civil War as our native sons joined The Cause, many never to return. Another nearby disaster, the outbreak of Yellow Fever in Memphis in 1878, also contributed to the stagnant population as the Town fathers quarantined this area, forbidding outsiders from entering the Town.

In 1883, the name of the Town was changed to Arlington, a name suggested by Captain Henry Pitman. He had visited the national cemetery in Virginia and thought it was the most beautiful spot on the earth. Arlington is probably the only Town named for a cemetery!

The community received its charter from the State of Tennessee in December 1900, then with a population of slightly over 600. Like many small communities, Arlington suffered losses during the World Wars; the 1950 census shows only 465 residents, and the 1960 census lists 651. Arlington had 1,742 residents on its centennial. A special census conducted in early 2004 revealed that Arlington is currently home to over 5,000 people.

A real treat for the early citizens of Arlington was to board a westbound train for Memphis, sometimes becoming an overnight adventure in the big city. But, residents did not have a real need to visit the bigger city; the necessities of life could be found within its own Town square.

By the end of the 19th Century, the community boasted of its own post office, physician, druggist, cotton gin, lumber store, several general stores, a blacksmith, a meat market, and an undertaker. The center of Town then, as it is today, was S.Y. Wilson & Co. In the early 1900's, it furnished for customers practically everything imaginable – meat, groceries, sewing notions, clothes, feed and seed. (Today it is primarily a hardware, feed and seed store.) Long-standing residents can attest to the changes that have been made.

This little historical town may no longer be a best-kept secret, but its people and its charm will continue to remind us all that we must preserve our past while planning our future.

"Taking Pride In What We Have In Arlington"

Arlington Public Services

The Arlington Public Works Department works hard to ensure that Arlington residents are provided with quality public services on a timely, consistent, and cost-effective basis. The Public Works staff maintains the municipal sewer system and operates the wastewater treatment facility. The provision of electricity, gas, and potable water is currently handled by Memphis Light, Gas and Water Division (MLGW).

GARBAGE AND REFUSE COLLECTION

The town of Arlington provides garbage collection services to residents through contract with Waste Management, Inc. The town pays for each household to be provided with one standard trash container to be placed curbside once weekly for collection. Recycling of acceptable materials is encouraged by the Public Works department. Upon request, residents are provided a container in which to store recyclables for pickup. Pickup of yard trash, grass trimmings, and tree limbs can be scheduled by contacting the Public Works department.

NEW RESIDENTS SHOULD CALL PUBLIC WORKS AT 867-4980 TO ESTABLISH TRASH COLLECTION SERVICE.

CLICK HERE for the complete Rules, Regulations, and Instructions for garbage and refuse collection in Arlington (as of April 9, 2004)

NOTE: Commercial and industrial facilities are responsible for providing their own collection services.

WASTEWATER TREATMENT

Wastewater treatment service is essential to community well-being for two very important reasons: 1) wastewater treatment service protects public health from disease-carrying bacteria and viruses and 2) wastewater treatment service protects water quality for both drinking water and recreational purposes.

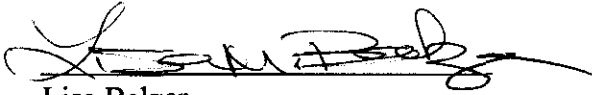

The town of Arlington currently treats waste and sewer water in a lagoon on Collierville-Arlington Road, north of Highway 70. This facility has the capacity to treat up to 1,000,000 gallons of wastewater per day. The end product is discharged into the Loosahatchie River. Due to the steady growth experienced by Arlington in recent years, the administration is finalizing plans and generating funds to construct a new mechanical treatment facility which will have the capacity to handle the additional needs created by the continuing growth. This new facility, once complete, will be able to carry Arlington well into the 21st century.
